MINUTE WITH THE MAYOR

This month Council released a number of draft financial documents for public comment.

Among them is the Draft Budget 2021-2022.

Some of the key features of the Budget are outlined here in Promenade. I would also encourage anyone interested to read the complete document and provide us with feedback.

You can pick up a copy of the Budget from the Civic Centre, 25 Liebig Street, or read it online at www.yoursaywarrnambool.com.au

Also on public exhibition are Council's Long-Term Financial Plan and the Draft Revenue and Rating Plan. These documents are important in helping Council plan for a financially sound future which allows us to look after the city's infrastructure and to continue to provide vital services to the community.

Also out for public exhibition is the Draft Council Plan 2021-2025.

This is the strategic document guiding the Council's activities over the next four years. It aligns with the community vision, Warrnambool 2040, and helps us in the development of annual budgets.

The Draft Council Plan was developed with the community through an online survey, listening posts and deliberative engagement workshops.

You'll find the Draft Council Plan at www.yoursaywarrnambool.com.au and we'd also like to receive your feedback on the plan.

And finally, if you are aged 50 years or older, you are now eligible for a COVID-19 vaccination.

South West Healthcare has established an amazing vaccination centre at the Bayside City Plaza and you can start to make a booking by scanning the QR code on the cover of Promenade.

2021 WARRNAMBOOL & MOYNE YOUTH AWARDS

Nominations for the 2021 Warrnambool and Moyne Youth Awards are now open.

The awards recognise young people aged between 12 and 25 who have exemplified and demonstrated cooperation, resilience, responsibility, kindness and passion.

Warrnambool Mayor Vicki Jellie said that the awards are an important opportunity to recognise and celebrate the talents and strengths of the region's young people after a challenging year.

"COVID-19 had an impact on everyone, but young people were hit especially hard," she said.

"On top of months of remote learning, young people faced the cancellation of sport and other activities, reduced social connections and the impact on the hospitality industry which disproportionately affected young people.

"While 2020 was a difficult year in so many ways, young people are the masters of taking lemons and turning them into lemonade.

"We are home to some very talented, hard-working and community-minded young people who deserve to have the spotlight shone on everything wonderful that they have achieved."

The 2021 Warrnambool and Moyne Youth Awards will be held on Sunday July 25. Warrnambool and Moyne are also partnering on the 2021 Youth Showcase which involves a series of youth art and music events in the lead-up to the awards.

To nominate someone for a Youth Achiever Award, visit www.warrnambool.vic.gov.au/warrnambool-and-moyne-youth-awards

Nominations close on June 13.

DRAFT BUDGET FOCUS ON ASSET RENEWAL AND SERVICE

Warrnambool City Council has released its $98.4m Draft Budget 2021-2022 for community review.

“Council has endeavoured to balance the expectations of the community within the limits of rate capping,” Warrnambool Mayor Cr Vicki Jellie said.

“We now want to hear from Warrnambool residents about how they feel the Budget will serve them over the next year.

“We have made the difficult decision to propose a rate increase of 1.5 per cent.

“This was done because we wanted to maintain Council services and to look after the infrastructure we have.

“We recognise that for some the increase in rates – about $32 for the average household – will be a financial burden.

“So we’ve strengthened our hardship provisions and added a $35 rebate for those who have demonstrated they face financial hardship.

“It is important that people know some of the detail in the Budget. Early on this new Council indicated it wanted to form stronger relationships with our Aboriginal community.

“So we will invest in a dedicated Aboriginal liaison officer role. We think this has great potential to help bridge gaps between Council and Warrnambool’s Aboriginal community.”

Council is also proposing the introduction of one hour of free parking in short-term spaces in Council owned and managed off-street car parks including Cramond and Dickson, Ozone, Parkers and the Art Gallery car parks.

“We know that the one-hour will cover trips into the CBD for many people and this means there will be no hassle for shoppers. It means that in addition to the free parking along Banyan Street, the railway station and Cannon Hill we now have dozens of free parking spaces right in the heart of the city a short stroll from shops.”

Council is also committed to completing key infrastructure projects including the new Warrnambool Learning and Library Hub, the Reid Oval upgrade and the Lake Pertobe upgrade.

Council will also replace the ageing Edwards Bridge to ensure that visitors, residents, heavy vehicles and emergency vehicles have ongoing access to the Warrnambool foreshore.

The Edwards Bridge project recently received $1.5 million in Australian Government funding.

Capital works highlights:

- Road renewals $3.75 million
- Edwards Bridge upgrade $3.00m
- Completion of the Lake Pertobe Master Plan implementation (Stage I) $2.90 million
- Recreational facilities upgrades $1.65m
- New and renewed footpaths $1.50m
- Learning and library hub $1.25m
- Energy saving initiatives (smart buildings project) $1m
- Drainage renewal and upgrade $340,000
- Beach access renewal $180,000
- Livestock exchange $2.56m

Council has also sought to achieve greater equity in the application of commercial rating of properties.

“We are proposing to apply a commercial rate to all short-term accommodation providers, including those who are listed on platforms such as Airbnb,” Cr Jellie said.

“This levels the playing field with traditional short-term accommodation providers already paying a commercial rate.” Council will also undertake a number of important planning projects including the Allansford Flood Study and the Municipal Strategic Land Use Plan.

“And we have also set money aside to look at the Japan Street stormwater catchment area which has flooded in heavy rainfalls,” Cr Jellie said.

Council has increased support for volunteers after Australian Government funding for volunteer support roles ended this year.

Parking along Botanic Road will also be formalised, the McGennans Car Park toilets will be replaced following extensive community consultation and Council will invest in a redesign of the South-West Victorian Livestock Exchange to ensure it meets all required standards best practice in customer and livestock care.

50 AND OLDER? BOOK A COVID-19 VACCINATION

If you are aged 50 years and older, you are now eligible to be vaccinated against COVID-19.

South West Healthcare is now vaccinating people aged 50 and over at South West Healthcare Vaccination Centre established at the Bayside City Plaza, 184 Merri Street (formerly Sam’s Warehouse).

Booking yourself in for a vaccination is easy, go to www.southwesthealthcare.com.au/covid-19-information to book a time. Alternatively you can scan the QR code on the cover of Promenade and you will be taken directly to the South West Healthcare website.

Once you’ve booked a time you will receive a confirmation email allowing you to complete the registration process – you will need your Medicare number.

If you want to know more about the rollout of vaccines in Australia go to: www.coronavirus.vic.gov.au/information-hub-coronavirus-covid-19-vaccine

BAITING PROGRAM EXPANDS IN FIGHT AGAINST FOXES

The Warrnambool City Council is expanding its fox baiting program to help better protect native wildlife, including the Little Penguin Colony on Middle Island.

The fox baiting program will run until June 23, 2021. The baited areas will be closed to dogs and other pets (including dogs on leads), during and up to four weeks after the fox baiting program.

In addition to the Council managed land west of the Warrnambool Sewage Treatment Plant, bait will be laid in areas of Lake Pertobe, Pickering Point and behind the skate park.

Multiple warning signs have been erected at each location.

Warrnambool City Council Director City Infrastructure David Leahy said that after introducing fox baiting last year, Council's 2021 program would move to target more known fox "hotspots".

"It's highly unlikely that the threat of foxes will ever be completely eliminated, but it is important that we take steps to try and reduce their impact," he said.

"Specially trained Border Collies helped to map fox activity in the precinct, and this data is being used to help determine the distribution of bait.

"Looking specifically at the Middle Island penguin colony, this approach will stop as many foxes as possible before they reach Stringray Bay, with the highly effective Maremma dogs forming the last line of defence.

"Just as importantly, baiting will help to protect the native animals and birds who live in our foreshore area that are not guarded by Maremmas."

Council officers will use para-aminopropiophenone (commonly called PAPP) in the baiting area. PAPP is a meat-based bait which targets foraging carnivorous animals.

"As well as being considered more humane than other baits, one of the big advantages of PAPP is that an antidote can be administered should a non-target animal eat any bait," Mr Leahy said.

"If you believe your pet has eaten poison bait, it needs urgent veterinary intervention. While an antidote exists, the window to administer it is small.

"Bait will be buried away from paths and its placement will be mapped to make sure that none is left behind after the program finishes."

Vet clinics in Warrnambool that hold the antidote include:

- The Vet Group, 59 Mortlake Road Warrnambool – Phone 5561 6911
- The Warrnambool Veterinary Clinic, 514 Raglan Parade – Phone 5559 0222

If members of the public encounter a dead fox within the baiting areas, they are asked to contact Council on 5559 4800.

SAFETY UPGRADE FOR IMPORTANT ROUNDABOUT

The roundabout at the intersection of Banyan Street, Merri Street and Pertobe Road is being upgraded to make it safer for motorists, cyclists and pedestrians.

The project is funded via the Federal Government's Blackspot Program and the Warrnambool City Council.

Warrnambool Mayor Vicki Jellie said that the works would help improve traffic safety at the gateway to Warrnambool's foreshore.

"The pavement at the intersection is due to be replaced, and we have taken the opportunity to apply for Federal Government funding to cover the majority of the works and make the intersection safer at the same time with a number of other improvements," she said.

"This can be a very busy intersection, especially during summer and on hot days, with cars, cyclists and pedestrians all going to and from the foreshore area.

"The Pertobe Road side of the intersection especially will see a big improvement, with no accessible pedestrian refuge currently in place at this commonly used crossing point.

"By making the roundabout larger and installing raised humps and pedestrian refuges at all crossing points, the aim is to slow the traffic down and make the intersection safer to use for everyone."

Works are expected to be completed in mid-June.

REID OVAL UPDATE

The transformation of Reid Oval continues.

Work on the new Reid Oval pavilion is going well, and by the time you are reading this, the light towers are likely to be in place.

The slab has been poured for the second storey of the pavilion and the steel frame has been erected.

Four 30m light towers were assembled on site ready for installation. The upgraded lighting will allow for night fixtures to be played at Reid Oval.

The turf continues to settle in, with a detailed care and maintenance program in place.

If you have any questions about the Reid oval Redevelopment, please contact us on 5559 4800 or reidoval@warrnambool.vic.gov.au.

KNOW YOUR RECYCLING

Have you seen these symbols on product packaging before?

While they look like recycling symbols, the numbers inside the triangles are in fact resin codes, telling you what type of plastic they are made from. They're not usually the best way to tell if something can go in your household recycling bin.

So what's the best way to know if a product is recyclable, and how to recycle it?

Sustainability Victoria has created a handy tool to help you properly dispose of more than 150 common (and not-so-common) household items.

Information on this website is based primarily on items that recycling company VISY accepts. As VISY is also Council's recycling processor, it means that this website is an excellent resource for anyone in the Warrnambool City Council municipality.

So if the website says something to the effect of "Yes this item can go in your household recycling bin, however some Councils have different arrangements" then that item can almost always go in your recycling bin in Warrnambool.

The main exception to this rule is glass, which goes in your glass only bin.

Look up items and learn more about recycling in Victoria at www.recycling.vic.gov.au and if you have any questions about recycling in Warrnambool, please get in touch with us on 5559 4800 or contact@warrnambool.vic.gov.au.

NEW RUBBISH BINS ON THE WAY

Over the next six weeks, all Warrnambool households will receive a larger rubbish bin, with collections to change from weekly to fortnightly.

This completes the municipality's transition to a four-bin system, with dedicated glass only bins rolled out citywide in April.

"Over the past few years, there have been a lot of changes to the way kerbside collection works in Warrnambool, and I'd like to thank everyone for their patience as we move to a four-bin system," Warrnambool Mayor Cr Vicki Jellie said.

"By introducing a larger rubbish bin, but collecting it fortnightly, we're able to keep our number of fortnightly 'bin lifts' at four, helping to keep collection costs down while creating a better system to manage waste."

Bins will begin being dropped off to properties from May 16, with everyone expected to have their new bin by the end of June.

"Once you receive your new rubbish bin, all of your collections are fortnightly from then on," Cr Jellie said.

"So your rubbish bin goes out with your FOGO bin one week, and the next week it's your recycling and glass bins."

To double-check which bins goes out on which night at your property, visit www.warrnambool.vic.gov.au/collections-schedules or visit the Civic Centre at 25 Liebig Street for a hard copy collection schedule.

Jayden and Lucy Kleinhenz sorting bread tags at the ARC Stadium school holiday program

THOUSANDS OF BREAD TAGS SET FOR RECYCLING

An impressive 64kg of bread tags are ready for recycling.

Thank you to the children from the ARC Holiday Program and students from Merrivale and Woodford Primary Schools for sorting 1000s of bread tags into colours, making them easier to recycle.

Thank you as well to everyone who dropped off bread tags at the Civic Centre and Bakers Delight in the Target Centre.

The tags are all heading to Robe in South Australia to be turned into a range of new items, like the board that Lucy is holding in this photo.

You can continue to drop bread tags off, and once we have another sizeable haul, we will arrange for another delivery.

ADD TO NATIONAL SORRY DAY FLOWER DISPLAY

We invite the community to make handcrafted purple flowers to contribute to a commemorative display for National Sorry Day, to acknowledge and show our solidarity to the Stolen Generations.

The native hibiscus is approved by the National Stolen Generations Alliance as the official symbol for Sorry Day. The colour symbolises compassion and spiritual healing. You can use whatever you like to make the flowers, but we encourage recycled materials wherever possible.

Please deliver your finished hand-crafted flowers to the Warrnambool Library by Friday May 21.

The flowers will be displayed at the Lighthouse Theatre on National Sorry Day and throughout Reconciliation Week, May 26 – June 3.

ARE THERE PLACES WHERE YOU FEEL UNSAFE?

Warrnambool City Council is joining 19 other Victorian municipalities in a project to gather perceptions about public safety for women and gender-diverse people.

YourGround is an interactive map where people can anonymously drop a pin, tell a story or share an experience while out for leisure, sport, exercise or play.

Statistics show that movement and access is restricted for women and gender-diverse people due to fear, violence and harassment.

While 80 per cent of Australian men report feeling safe while walking alone at night, a 2019 Community Council for Australia report notes that only 50 per cent of women say the same.

With the implementation of Victoria's Gender Equality Act 2020, creating inclusive spaces for women and gender-diverse people is a priority state-wide.

Warrnambool Mayor Cr Vicki Jellie said that the project would provide insights to help make Warrnambool's public spaces more inclusive and equitable.

"One of the best things about Warrnambool is how walkable it is, but the reality is that more than half the city's population is restricted in the places where they feel safe going or travelling through, especially at night," she said.

"Most women and gender-diverse people would have a story about a negative experience when out in public, ranging from a general feeling of unease right up to being the victim of a crime.

"We want to know where these places are so we can look at what can be done to make them feel safer."

View the map and share your story anonymously at www.yourground.org

LOOKING TO VOLUNTEER?

Retirement means having more time to do the things you enjoy, and for many people, volunteering a few hours a week can be one of the most fulfilling things they ever do.

Warrnambool City Council Volunteer Program Coordinator Carly Jordan supports the volunteering sector in the region, and said that volunteering was a win-win experience.

"We often talk a lot about the benefits volunteers provide to the community, but when you speak with the volunteers themselves, they truly love what they do," she said.

"The sense of purpose and the knowledge that you are making a difference in someone's life is almost euphoric. There's a name for it: the "helper's high".

"It's very simple really. When you do good, you feel good.

"Numerous long-term studies have shown that volunteers are more likely to have good mental health, physical health and a general feeling of happiness and fulfilment."

Carly said that for many people who derived a lot of their purpose and social connections from their workplace, retirement could be a big adjustment. But regardless of how you've used your time up until now, retirement is an opportunity.

"Transitioning to retirement is a big stage in your life. Some people spend a third of their day or more working, and a job provides a routine," she said.

"Retirement is the chance to think about what you'd like to spend your time doing and how your life might look like going forwards.

"This is the time to use what you've learned over your lifetime to help your community, make new social connections and have fun while you're doing it."

There's sure to be a volunteer role in Warrnambool that suits your availability, skills and interests.

National Volunteer Week runs from May 17-23.

For more information about volunteering in Warrnambool visit www.warrnambool.vic.gov.au/volunteering or call 5559 4800.

A SOUND INVESTMENT AT THE LIGHTHOUSE THEATRE

From an audio perspective, every seat is now the best seat in the house at the Lighthouse Theatre thanks to a major sound upgrade.

A new $250,000 sound system has replaced the 39 year old set-up installed as part of the original Warrnambool Performing Arts Centre.

Lighthouse Theatre Manager Xavier Dannock said that the upgrade meant that all acts to grace the theatre's stage would now be heard exactly the way that the performer intends.

"We now have the same style of sound system as some of the largest venues across Australia and the world, including the Sydney Opera House and many major Broadway and West End venues," he said.

"Our patrons will instantly notice the difference. The depth of sound that this new system is able to create and the consistency of its delivery is absolutely world class.

"This system is able to intelligently perform thousands of micro-adjustments per second to make sure that everyone is receiving the same volume, tone and clarity, regardless of whether it's a spoken word performer or a full-blown orchestra."

With COVID-19 restrictions easing and the Lighthouse Theatre now back to full capacity, additional tickets have been released for upcoming performances, some of which had previously sold out.

For more information about upcoming shows, and to book tickets, visit [www.lighthouse theatre.com.au](http://www.lighthouse theatre.com.au), call 5559 4999 or visit the theatre box office on the corner of Liebig and Timor streets.

GARDENS FOR WILDLIFE

Are you interested in attracting more native wildlife into your garden?

Warrnambool City Council, in partnership with the community, is embarking on a Gardens for Wildlife pilot project.

The project will involve visiting 10 gardens to provide gardeners with advice to increase habitat for wildlife.

"From May 19 we'll be inviting people to register their interest in being a part of the project," Council Natural Environment Officer Jacqui Balazs said.

"There'll be a simple questionnaire made available at www.yoursaywarrnambool.com.au where people can register.

"Once we've identified 10 gardens two trained volunteers with knowledge of wildlife gardening and indigenous plants will visit each property to talk with the gardeners about their aspirations for attracting wildlife.

"From there we will develop a recipe for a wildlife garden that suits the gardener's aspirations and space.

"It'll be exciting to see the changes take place in each of the gardens and to see more wildlife being enticed back into our urban areas because there is suitable habitat."

Residents within the Warrnambool municipality are eligible to apply to be a part of the Warrnambool Gardens for Wildlife project.

RE/JOY AT THE WAG.

Seven well-loved ceramics have been transformed into brand-new artworks as part of a new exhibition at the Warrnambool Art Gallery.

Re/JOY is a new collaborative exhibition from artist, curator and activist Vipoo Srivilasa.

Srivilasa has intricately 'repaired' damaged ceramics donated by members of the South West Victorian community. Each damaged object, selected for its sentimental connection to the owner, enters into a process of 'restorative happiness'.

Through this process, Srivilasa interrogates our emotional connections to objects, while instilling a direct relationship of trust between the artist, curator and participant.

Re/JOY is on until June 20. Entry to the Warrnambool Art Gallery is free.
